The ladybird is an insect with lots of black spots. Many, many black spots.

It's not a butterfly. It's a different insect.

It's not an insect with flat wings. It's an insect with round wings.

It's not a big insect. It's a small insect.

It has spots which are equal in shape and size. It has a red body with black spots.

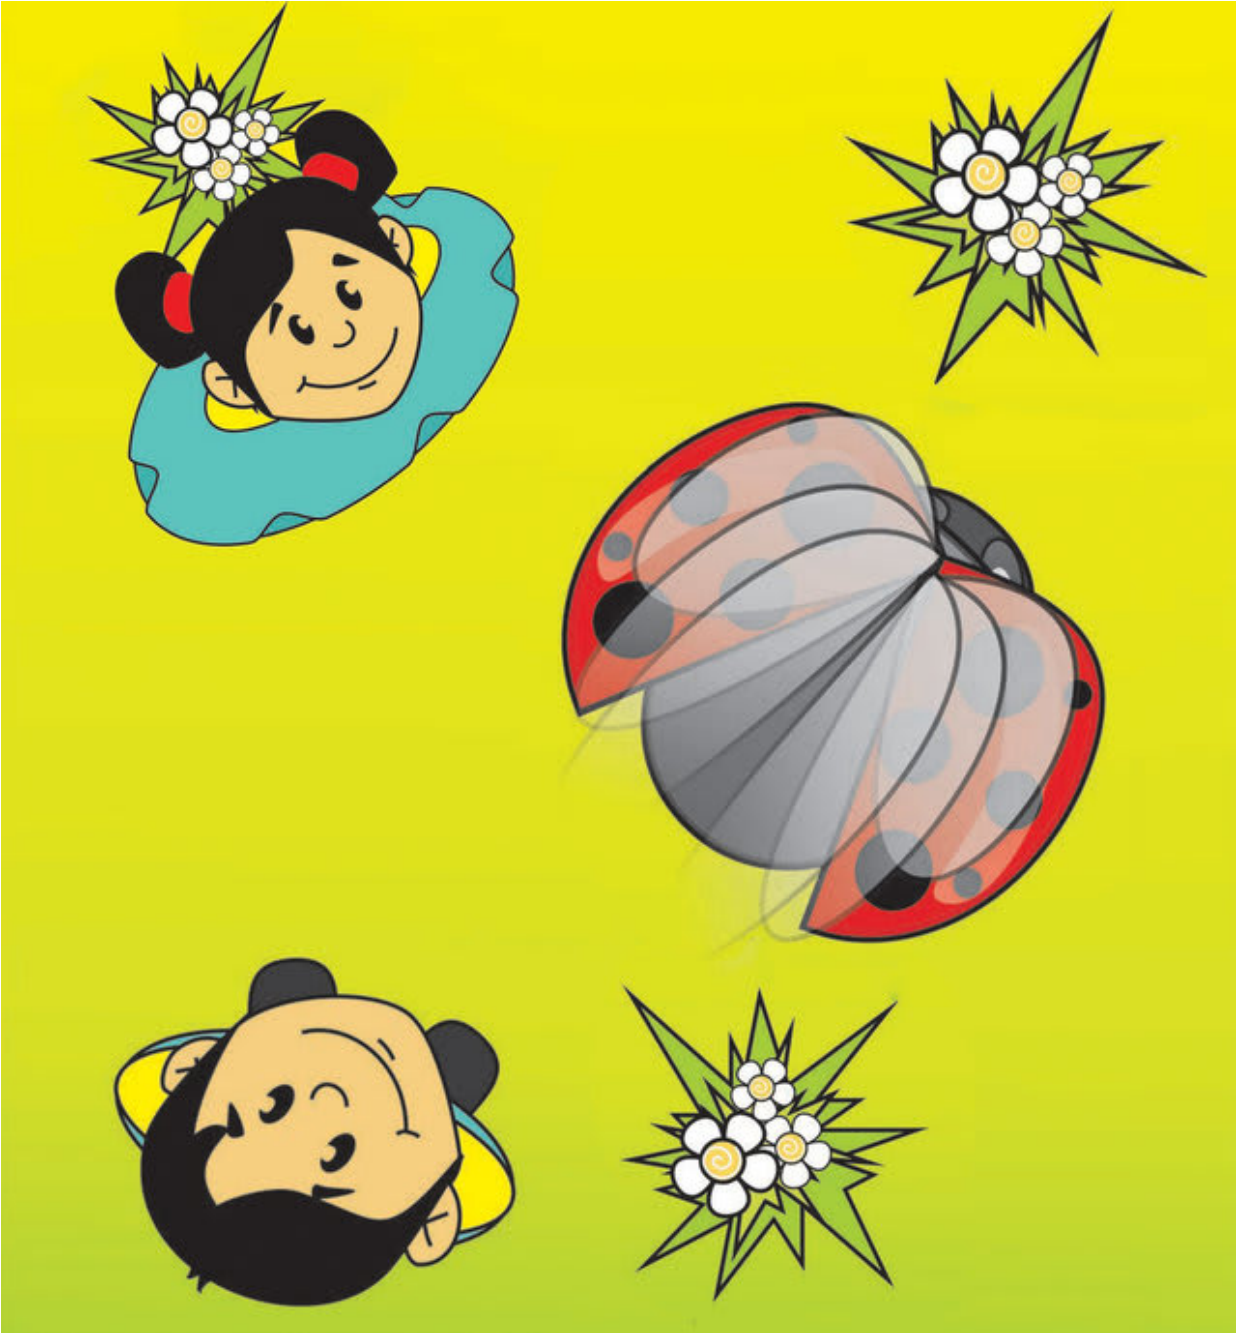

Ladybird, how did you get spots all over your body?

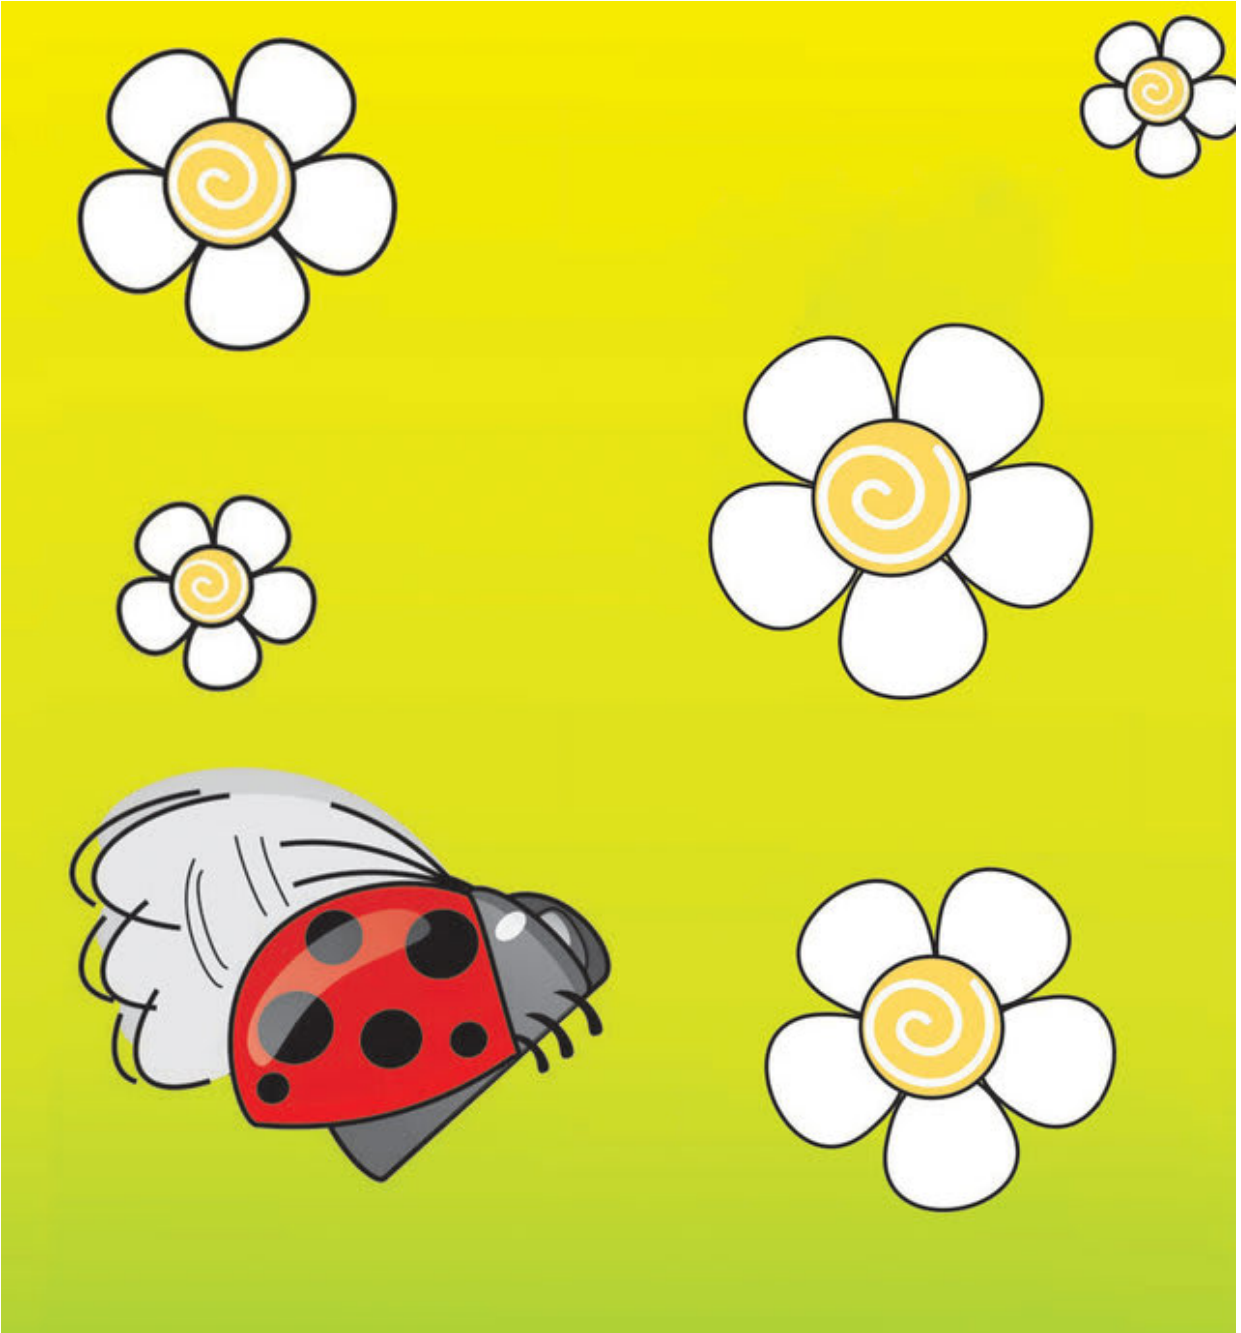

Did you get them yourself?

Can you give me one?

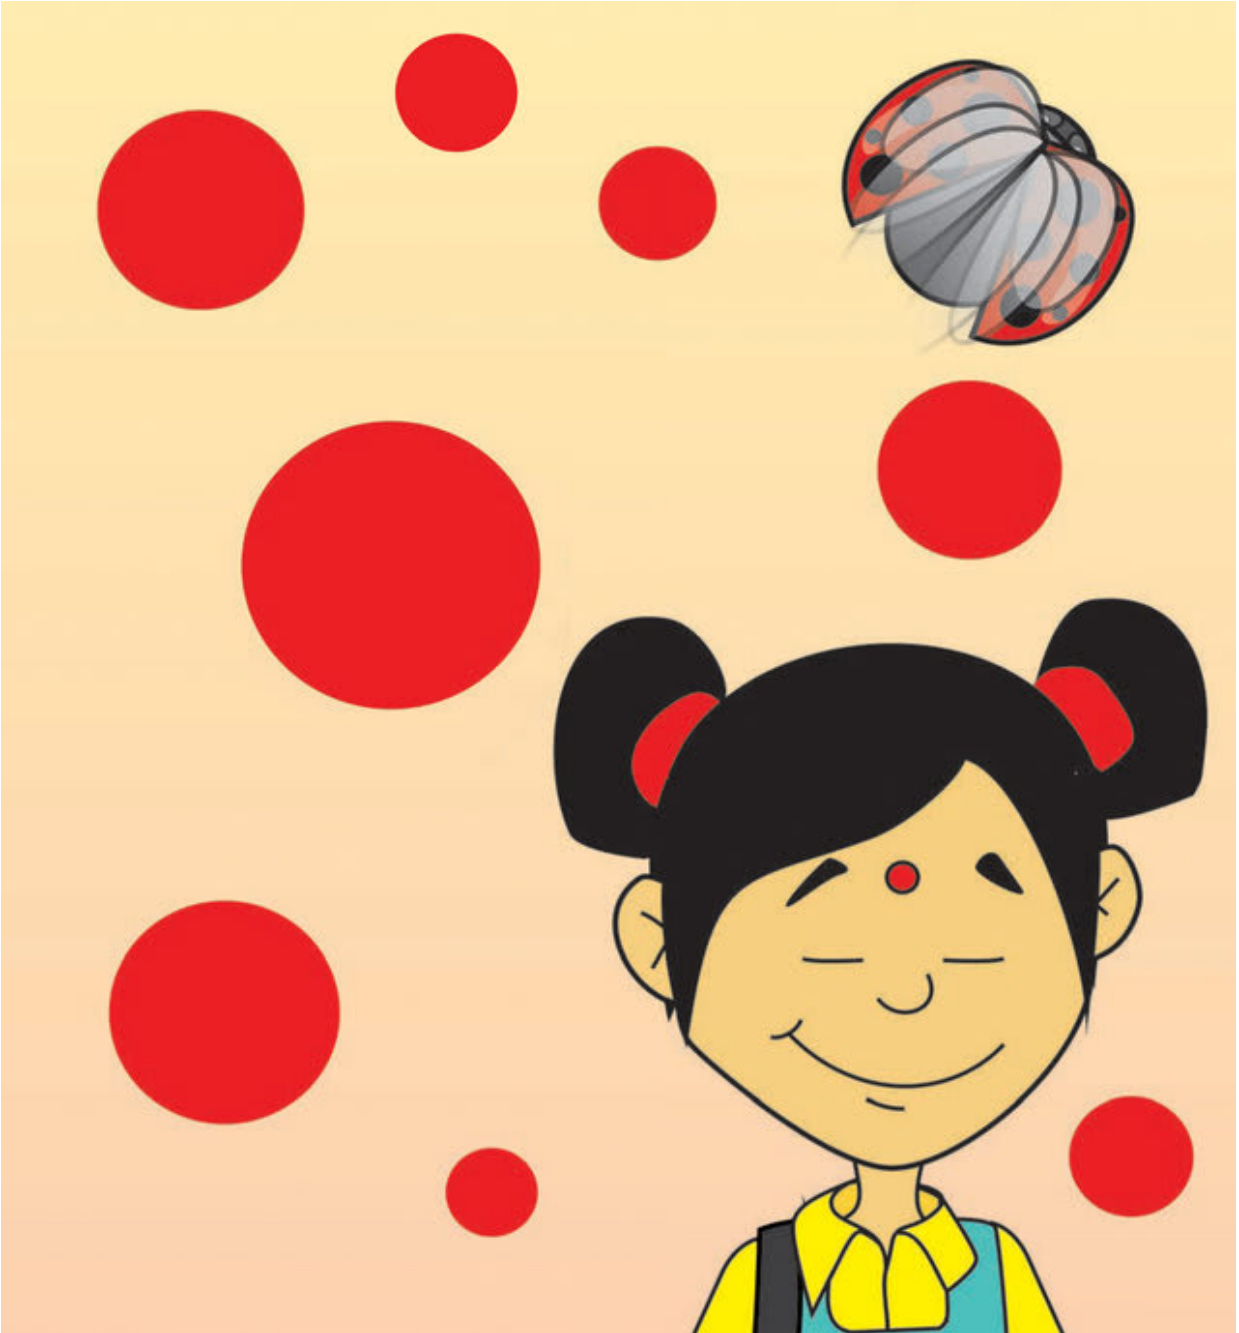

I want a spot.

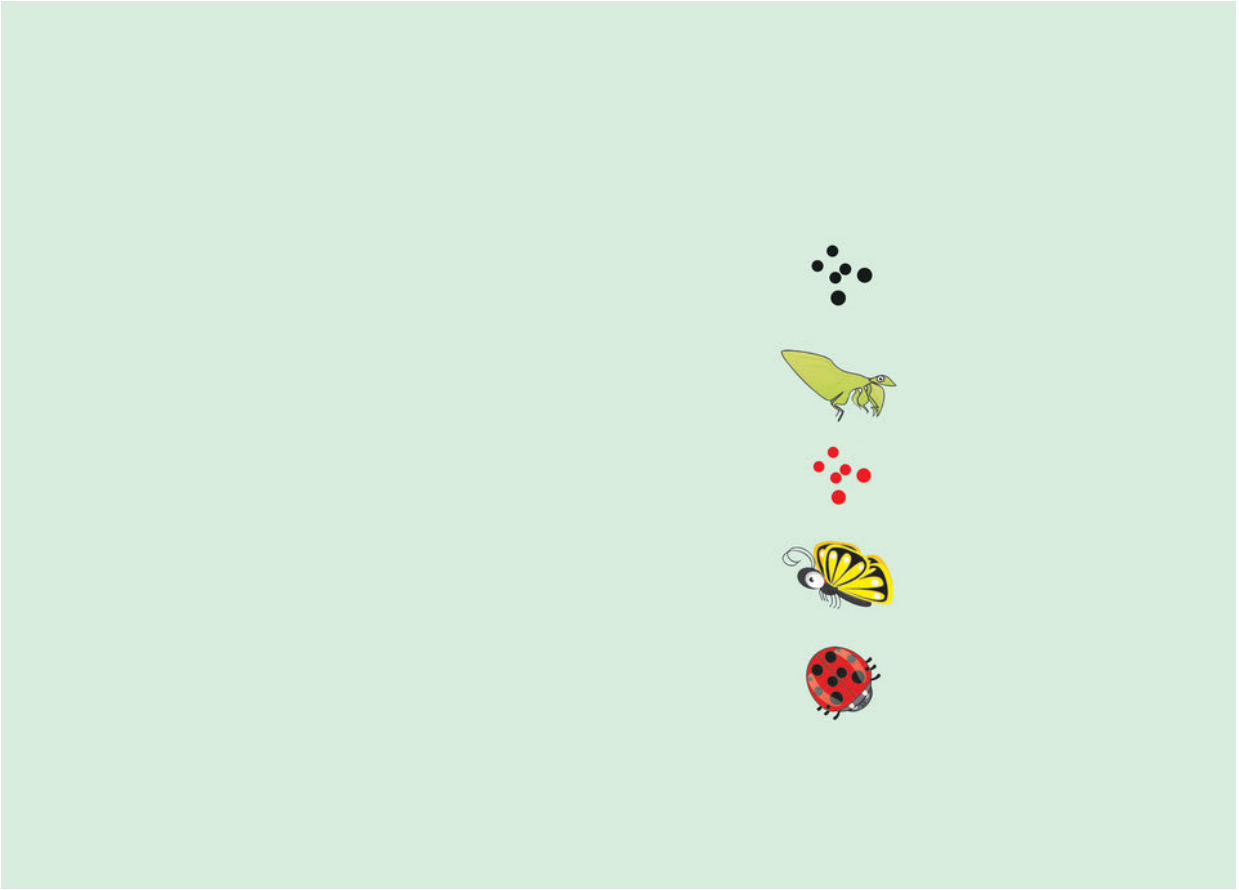

Not many spots, just one.

One red spot to put on my forehead to be like a ladybird.

Match the following : Ladybird
Butterfly Flatwinged insect Blackspot
Redspot
