A small firefly lives in the forest. She wanders alone and thinks too much. "Everyone is more beautiful than me.

What is my purpose? Who should I be?"

In the forest, beauty is everywhere!
Grasshoppers hide in green grasses
here.

Butterflies on flowers are spreading their wings. They look to her like lovely drawings!

The weaver-bird makes a nest with her beak. She sways on her nest like a dancing queen!

The spider jumps from tree to tree.
Spinning his webs with blue threads many.

Buzzing around flowers, they work a lot. Bees in a swarm come back with honey pots.

The firefly is lost in thought. “Is there anything special that I have got?”

Towards the water, she flies, she flies.
Seeing her, the river smiles.

"Firefly, you won't worry any more.
When you see the night fall on the shore."

The firefly hovers over the waters dark. And sees her reflection like the stars!

The river asks, “Do you know what you have?” The firefly glows, all bright and glad.

What Does The Firefly Have?

(English) As she flies through the forest, a small firefly admires all the animals she passes by. The grasshopper in the green grass, the butterfly spreading out its wings, the weaver-bird swaying in its woven nest, and the spider swinging across the trees. The small firefly is envious. Why can't she be as beautiful as the other animals? Can you help the firefly discover the beauty she brings to the forest?
